

Violence on television has reached epic portions. We're creating a generation of people who will be de-sensitized to violence, prone to violence.